A commentary on the Greek text of the Epistles of Paul to the Thessalonians John Eadie

The Lectures on First and Second Thessalonians here published were designed by their lamented author for the press; and they will be found to display in full measure his eminent qualities as an expositor. There is the same extensive and minute scholarship; the same originality of research and independence of judgment; the same penetration and sagacity in tracing the course of argument; and the same unfailing sympathy with the deepest thoughts and lessons of inspiration. Independently of his own understood purpose, these rare excellencies would have required the issue of what is likely to be his final contribution to exegetical literature. Nor is it without interest that a career of exposition, devoted to so many of Paul's epistles, returns upon itself to end with the first that bear his name. The author's manuscript, which presents every mark of being complete, has been most carefully transcribed; and the quotations and references have been verified. Special thanks are due to the Rev. William Young,
