Involution: Stories, Poems and Essays from the first two years of Line Zero Renda Belle Dodge Within the pages of Involution are the best and most divergent stories, poems and essays of the first two

In its first two years Line Zero grew from an emerging publication to an extensive print journal dedicated to writing and the arts. Unlike any other publication of its kind, it features the hybrid content of a traditional literary magazine and a collection of editorial essays on art, writing, music, publishing, photography, creative writing reference, book and tech reviews, and art events.

Line Zero is the place where it all starts. It's the blank page, the empty beginning and the start of something new. It's the excitement of a story about to unfold, and it's also the terrifying emptiness of writer's block. Most of all, it's taking that step into artistic creation.
