Ancient Egypt and Judea: Migration, Beliefs, Exodus, Battles and Alliance Mr. Mel Meckler

Mr. Meckler arranged in May, 1999 to take a guided tour of the Pyramids and Great Sphinx at Giza, the ancient capital cities of Memphis, Thebes; Luxor Temple and its famous inscribed columns; Karnak Temple ruins, monuments and statues; Egypt's Winter Palace; the Valley of the Kings including the tombs of Pharaoh Ramesses IV, Amenhotep IV, his son Tutankhamen and others; the; Aswan Dam including an overnight stay at nearby, famous Old Cataract Hotel, followed by visit to Queen Hatshepsut Palace, a boat trip on the Nile extending to early Nubian sites including Abu Simbal. In December 1973, he traveled throughout Israel and a portion of southern Syria visiting numerous ancient historical sites there as well. After reviewing his trip notes following his reading "Battles of the Bible", a military history of ancient Judea, Mr. Meckler undertook a comprehensive study of both ancient Egypt and Judea concluding with an integrated timeline of both ancient neighbors,. In that process he discovered a number of discrepancies on the timing and former publication of joint events when compared to events as described in either the Bible or published first century C.E. Jewish historian Flavius Josephus writings and others as to their contacts, prior to and following the Exodus, and extending from 2000 B.C., the date of "Abraham's revelation" though to the death of Cleopatra, the last of the Egyptian Pharaohs, Mel Meckler's new findings are intended to add clarity to the richness, timing and accuracy of ancient Egyptian and Judean interaction that challenge prior assumptions and myths by incorporating more recent information that our readers should find quite interesting and revealing; providing them with useful historical insights into current Arab Spring tensions.
